

2010 British Grand Prix, Donington Park

Saturday 10th - Sunday 11st June

Donington Park takes over from Silverstone hosting the 2010 British Grand Prix. On a weekend where history is sure to be made why miss a second. The last time a Grand Prix was contested on the Donington Park track the late great Ayrton Senna won, back in the 1993 European Grand Prix.

The British Grand Prix is attracting even more speculation than usual this year as the new venue brings with it much rumour of how the track will handle the magnitude of the occasion that is a Formula one Grand Prix.

With both then World Champion Lewis Hamilton and new Champion Jensen Button failing to even reach the podium last year at Silverstone they will be looking to put it right this year at Donington Park.

Vale Restaurant is a shared restaurant facility located within the Vale complex offering a fantastic environment where Champagne and Pimm's flow, and offers guests a reserved seat in a private grandstand.

Private tables are available for 8, 10 or 12 guests, with smaller numbers accommodated on shared tables.
